TRAIN CUT OFF FARMER'S HEAD

Glen Rock Witnesses Death of Farmer Well Known in Adams County. Stepped from One Track to Another and is Instantly Killed.

Stepping in front of an express train in Glen Rock Thursday Frederick Wenrich, a retired farmer, of Shrewsbury, who is well known in Adams County, was instantly killed, his head being cut off and his body mangled almost beyond recognition.

The accident occurred at about 12.15 p. m., Mr. Wenrich having spent the morning in the town on business and being prepared to return home. While crossing the track he stepped from the southbound to the northbound track to avoid another train that was passing. Not seeing the express he walked directly in front of the locomotive, which was beginning to slow down to pass through the station. The engineer applied the air brakes and quickly brought the train to a stop but an examination showed that Wenrich had been decapitated. His right leg was cut off and the left leg was fractured.

The body was taken in charge by the railway officials and sent to an undertaking establishment to be prepared for burial.

The deceased was about seventyone years old and moved to Shrewsbury from Hametown. He is survived by a widow and one son, Henry Wenrich, who resides with his parents.

WOULD CHANGE ROAD BUILDING

Present System of Constructing State Roads in Adams County will be Abandoned in Case Suggestion is Followed.

If the recommendations of State Highway Commissioner Hunter made on Thursday in an address before the State Convention of Engineers at Harrisburg are followed, the present system of road making by the state in Adams County will be abandoned and a different method used. Mr. Hunter suggests that instead of building isolated sections of several miles as between Arendtsville and Biglerville and in the vicinity of McSherrytown, the roads be built to connect with each other so that there may be long stretches of good state highways and so that it will not be a matter of traveling a few miles on good roads to get on another highway of different character. Mr. Hunter in discussing the matter said:

"The primary move in asking for the reconstruction of a road must be made by the supervisors of a township. This system gives isolated sections of reconstructed roads the longest section of improved road, being 14.2 miles. In order to get rid in a measure of the patch work system now being followed and to provide for a system of continuous improved highways, the Legislature should adopt such a plan as will authorize the reconstruction of main roads or trunk lines throughout the State, following in the main the present highways and eventually connecting by improved roads several centers of population, county seats, principal cities and towns.

"These trunk lines will require the reconstruction of about 3000 miles of roads and the cost of such reconstruction and maintenance afterward should be paid for entirely by the State. No better investment could be made; the value of good roads is incalculable. The improvement of these roads will greatly benefit the rural districts, will invite strangers to be our guests and will afford our citizens an opportunity of seeing the most fertile fields and the grandest scenery to be found anywhere in the world, and which today remains hidden and unknown to but few. We believe that with a system of good roads connecting centers of population and extending to the State line in all directions and connecting with similar systems in adjoining States there will be inaugurated an era of good feeling and fellowship, of easy communication and intercourse that, as the years go by, will more firmly weld and cement the bond that unites us in the sisterhood of States."

CHANGE IN RAILROAD BILL

Senate Accepts Amendment Regulating Injunction.

IT AFFECTS STATE LAWS

Democrats Ask For Time to Consider
Change Before Final Vote Is Taken.
Other Modifications Made.

Washington, June 3.—But for the fact that Senator Overman, of North Carolina, succeeded in having the senate incorporate in the railroad bill a provision regulating injunction proceedings affecting state laws, the senate probably would have voted on the railroad bill yesterday.

The acceptance of that provision had the effect of inclining some Democratic senators more favorably to the bill and of causing the Democratic side of the chamber to request an opportunity for consultation before reaching the voting stage on the final passage. Accordingly the vote was postponed to permit a Democratic conference.

Just before the adjournment for the day Senator Elkins gave notice that at the proper time he would ask the senate to substitute the senate bill for the house bill.

He succeeded in having adopted an amendment postponing for sixty days after its passage the time when the proposed law shall go into effect. The suggestion was not received with general favor, and on a roll call vote received a majority of only seven, the vote standing 32 to 25.

Scope of Injunction Amendment.

The Overman provision covers a subject broader than transportation. It provides that no interlocutory injunction suspending or restraining the execution of any statute of a state by restraining the action of any officer of such state in the enforcement of such statute shall be issued by any federal judge upon the ground of unconstitutionality, unless the application shall be presented to a justice of the supreme court or to a circuit judge, and shall be heard by three judges.

The only objection expressed to the amendment was that its operation would not be limited to railroads, but there was a considerable vote against it, the ballot resulting 33 ayes to 28 noes.

The provision heretofore adopted placing interstate telegraph and telephone lines under the supervision and control of the interstate commerce commission, was enlarged in compliance with a suggestion by Senator La Follette, who presented the original amendment. As it now stands it provides that telegraph and telephone charges shall be just and reasonable and authorizes the commission to determine when they are not so. Special night rates and special rates on press dispatches are authorized. Telegraph passes are prohibited to all persons. The penalty for disobeying this provision is fixed at from $100 to $2000.

Senator Hughes, of Colorado, was among those who had an amendment accepted. His provision gave to the shipper the right to choose a line competing with a part of the through route by which his shipment was being carried. It exempts the original carrier from all responsibility for damage sustained on other than its own line, however.

Mr. Simmons sought, though ineffectually, to have his physical valuation provision inserted. It was voted down 30 to 32. Senator La Follette succeeded with two or three amendments, but failed in an effort to obtain for shippers the right to bring suit in the proposed court of commerce when there is a prospect that irreparable damage may be done by increased rates, pending the delay necessary to an investigation by the interstate commerce commission.

$5,000,000 DAMAGES ASKED

New York Stock Exchange Defendant
In Suit.

New York, June 3.—The New York Bank Note company, of this city, has brought suit in the United States circuit court against Ransome H. Thomas, president, individually, of the New York stock exchange, and its 1100 members. Damages for $5,000,000 are asked.

The complainant charges that the New York stock exchange, by its rules, makes it mandatory that certificates of all companies traded in on the exchange shall be printed by the American Bank Note company.

Hot Wave Coming.

Washington, June 3.—The hot wave from the southwest is advancing slowly eastward through the gulf states and is due to reach the coast within two or three days, according to the weather forecasters. The cool conditions prevalent along the Atlantic coast are attributed to an overflow from the snowy and freezing conditions in the lake region and Canadian border and also to the lateness of the arrival of the gulf stream drift.

Forecast for this section: Partly cloudy, preceded by showers, today; tomorrow, fair; moderate temperature; light variable winds, mostly westerly.

Referee Says Johnson Was Offered Money to Lie Down to Jeffries.

SAYS BIG BATTLE WILL BE "FRAME UP"

Gov. Gillette Says Jeffries-Johnson Fight is "Fixed."

Chicago, June 3.—Governor J. N. Gillette, of California, who is in this city, poured hot shot into the promoters of the Jeffries-Johnson fight, and declared the affair to be a "frame up."

"All prize fights are fakes," he said. "I don't want to have anything to do with them or with anybody who has any interest in them."

The governor said he would gladly stop the coming battle for the world's championship if he could, but that "all sorts of frauds are allowed and nobody has the power to stop them."

"Anybody with the least sense knows that the whites of this country won't allow Johnson or any other colored man to win the world's championship from Jeffries. They simply won't stand for it. Johnson knows that. He is no fool. He knows that to win that fight he would have to whip every white man at the ringside. So he has agreed to lay down for the money. Why he would no more think of trying to knock Jeffries out than he would of trying to stop a bolt of lightning. Not that he might not be able to do it. But I know he would not only have to whip Jeffries, but the spectators, the police and every white man that could get at him."

"When the 'big championship battle' is ended, on July 4, every white man in this country will be told that a white man has demonstrated the physical superiority of his race over that of a rival race, and every one who has no sense will rejoice in the 'victory.' After vindicating the 'confidence in him' Jeffries will retire, and Johnson will make more money out of the credulous fools of this country."

Johnson to Throw Bout to Jeff.

San Francisco, June 3.—That Jack Johnson has been approached by sure thing men and offered large sums of money to "lay down" in the coming fight with Jeffries is now an established fact. This and more information of the same sort has been gathered by Tex Rickard, who has talked to the black champion in no uncertain terms. Rickard also announces that he will certainly referee the battle on July 4, and at the first sign of any funny word will call all bets off and at the same time notify "Big Tim" Sullivan, the stakeholder, not to pay off.

According to Rickard, it had been planned by several ring politicians, including Billy Nolan, to put Eddie Smith over as referee. The deal was all arranged when Rickard got wise. He immediately took the bit in his teeth and would not step out.

BABY ATE MATCHES

Parents Neglected to Call Doctor and Child Died in Mother's Arms.

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 3.—The two-year-old daughter of Samuel Hartle ate the heads of forty matches and was taken deathly ill. The child was nursed through the night and given antidotes by the mother, but a physician was not called. In the morning Mrs. Hartle took the child to a physician, and when she asked him to prescribe for it he found the baby dead in her arms.

Killed by Divorced Wife.

Seattle, Wash., June 3.—While riding in a train, Reese Prosser, an automobile salesman of Seattle, was shot and killed by his divorced wife, Vera. The shooting took place at Libby, Mont., at which place the woman left the train. After the train had started Prosser's body was discovered, and word was sent back to the town and the woman was arrested. The Prossers were married five years ago.

EIGHT KILLED BY QUARRY EXPLOSION

Six Hundred Sticks of Dynamite Go Off.

Allentown, Pa., June 3.—Eight quarrymen were instantly killed and four were injured by the premature explosion of a blast in the quarry of the Lehigh Portland Cement company at mill B, West Coplay.

Among the dead is Daniel Cannon, foreman of Allentown, a widower, who leaves ten children. The four injured were foreigners and were able to go home.

The men were preparing three holes sixty feet deep, and had put in 600 sticks of dynamite when the explosion occurred. No one knows the cause, but it is believed something fell into the hole, causing the cap to explode. The force of the dynamite was exerted upward and 2000 tons of rock were dislodged.

Cannon and two men were hurled 200 feet away, and four men were thrown into a wheat field. All were horribly dismembered. The eighth man is buried under the rock.

BOY KILLS HIS BROTHER

Fatal Ending to Playful Wrestling Bout Over Whip.

Lancaster, Pa., June 3.—While he was wrestling with Benjamin Brubaker, his twelve-year-old brother, Ephraim Brubaker, ten years old, son of B. F. Brubaker, a creamery man of Elstonsville, this county, he was so badly injured that he died in a short time.

Benjamin in a playful manner took a buggy whip and went for his young brother. Ephraim tried to take the whip away from him, and then they got to wrestling, the older boy throwing the younger. It is supposed in their fall Benjamin struck his knee on Ephraim's stomach, bursting an artery and causing instant death from internal hemorrhage. The boy never moved after the fall. There was no external evidence of injury.

good mulch of manure, while during the dry weather an occasional watering will help materially.

Scrub dairy sires have no place on farms where sufficient progress in the dairy business has been made to install the cream separator and the Babcock tester, yet now and then a fellow gets an economical streak and cuts up this very shindy. The scrub sire has no place in any section where brains and prudence are the agricultural guides.

DON'TS.

Don't forget that green rye is good winter picking for the flock. It helps to fill the egg crock.

Don't invest in musty grain with the idea that such feed saves money. It kills the profit payers.

Don't fail to set apart a place to quarantine newly bought stock and thus exclude vermin and disease.

Don't get mad when water vessels freeze solid and burst. It's a poultry plant, not an ice plant.

Don't feed corn with the idea that it is an egg producer. If you're after fat, it's great for that.

Don't feed cracked glass for grit and have the idea that it cannot cut the crop.

Don't break up breeding pens to attend a late show, and keep early show chicks out of the snow.

Don't let the ducks sleep on damp, dirty litter. It will get frosty, and your quackery will not save them.

Don't let the chickens roost on the wagon wheel. Roost there yourself and see how you feel.

Don't let the guineas roost in the persimmon tree. That's where hungry possums are sure to be.

Don't forget that eggs for hatching, if allowed to chill, will result in nil.

THE HOTBED.

It is none too early to begin making plans for the hotbed, which should be located in a sheltered, sunny spot. The bed can be started much earlier if the preliminary work—digging the pit, making the frame and laying by a supply of soil—was done last fall before freeze up. In such case all that will be necessary will be to put in the pit and pack down about ten inches of fresh horse manure, wet it with seven or eight pails of water, allow it to stand until the heating process gets well started and then put on four or five inches of earth. As soon as this becomes warm enough the seed may be sown. If the preliminary work was not done last fall, one would have to wait until the ground thawed sufficiently to permit the digging of the pit. If the work is delayed as a result of this, the early things may be started in boxes in the house and later transplanted to the hotbed.

Bad Breath

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by their use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this M. G. Dodson of Danville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O. To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions: Obtain a penny of expense. Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty-cent or one-dollar bottle of your druggist, and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folk generally. Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 521 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

BAD DREAMS

Nightmare, Restlessness and Night-sweats all Caused by Indigestion.

Half of the nervousness in the world, all of the disturbing dreams and nightmares can be ended in a few weeks, by a simple, inexpensive treatment.

Upset stomach is the cause of nervousness and bad dreams. Your food is lying in your stomach undigested and fermenting; it is forming poisonous gases which irritates the pneumogastric nerve that leads direct from the brain, and ends in a network of tiny branches running through the stomach.

It is also the irritation of this great pneumogastric nerve that causes headaches. Many times people have severe headaches and know they are caused by the stomach, but do not know in what manner.

If you are nervous, have dreams or nightmares, and do not sleep sound at night, get a 50-cent box of M-O-N-A stomach tablets and take one or two after or with meals. They relieve a distressed stomach in 5 minutes. Sold by druggists everywhere and by The People's Drug Store who guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back.

When one reads of an exceptional yield of grain or corn an interest very naturally attaches to the methods followed in producing it. For this reason those who have read the previous reference in these notes to the authenticated yield of 154 bushels of corn secured from a single acre by John Sundberg will be interested in knowing how it was grown. The ground on which this fine yield was produced was second bottom Missouri valley soil which had been in clover pasture some five years preceding. It was plowed in the fall, and in the spring it was given the usual thorough preparation for corn, including disking and harrowing. An acre and a half were chosen in the richest part of the field, one acre being laid out for the actual test. The grower figured out in advance just how many plants he would have to have to produce 150 bushels at harvest. To this were added a sufficient number of kernels to make up for those that for one cause or another would fail to produce ears. He planted the corn early in May, using a drill and double planting, so that the rows were twenty-one inches apart, the kernels being dropped eight inches apart in the row. The cultivating was done with a single horse and a five tooth cultivator, this being given at frequent intervals so as to keep the soil loose and moist. At husking time an actual count showed 11,880 stalks with ears averaging in weight 14.4 ounces. The land was re-measured and the corn weighed in the presence of a justice of the peace. The variety planted was Reid's Yellow Dent. It is interesting to note in connection with this yield that it was just about six times the average yield per acre for corn the country over. It is worth remembering, too, that, in addition to using the finest pure bred seed obtainable, the corn was grown on a very rich piece of bottom land and was given ideal cultivation. When corn growers will give more heed to the three factors here mentioned in the growing of their corn the yield of this great cereal will be materially increased.

TAFT SPEAKS TO BRYN MAWR GIRLS

Dwells on Advantage of Higher Education to Women.

HAPPIER MARRIED LIFE

The President Says Well Informed Women Make the Best Wives—Endowment Fund Subscribed.

Philadelphia, June 3. — President Taft told the graduating class of young women at Bryn Mawr college that he favored the higher education of women, and said that he utterly dissented from the suggestion that higher education unfits them for the duties of wife and mother.

The president was enthusiastically received by the faculty, students and their friends.

After greeting his daughter Helen, who is a student at the college, Mr. Taft, with Miss M. Carey Thomas, president of the college, led the procession from Taylor hall to the cloister garden, where, under an immense awning, commencement exercises were held. Twenty-five hundred persons, nearly all of the fair sex, were there ahead of the president and gave him a warm greeting.

Mr. Taft's address was closely followed, and when he came out strongly for the higher education for women he was greeted with a storm of hand-clapping.

It was announced that the college had more than made up the $380,000 required to receive the $250,000 awarded to Bryn Mawr by the General Education Board.

The President's Address.

After saying he had been asked to speak of the higher education of women and expressing diffidence in touching the subject in the presence of those who have made it their life study, Mr. Taft said:

"I dissent from the view that an academic education unfits a man or woman for business. It may be that the tastes that lead one to an academic education are not those which insure business success.

"But that the mental discipline, the power of reasoning, the cultivation and comparison of ideas, are not of assistance in business transactions in which the higher qualities of the mind are acutely in action, can hardly be true.

"But it is said that women are not all going into the professions, and so that the education necessary as a basis for a professional career is a necessity by those women who have a competency or who look forward to marriage and motherhood as the chief end of woman.

Educated Woman as Wife.

"It is even suggested that the higher education of women rather unfits them to discharge the duties of a wife and mother; that in some way or other it robs them of a charm and gives them an intellectual independence that is inconsistent with their being the best wives and mothers.

"I utterly dissent from this view. The companionship of married life is the chief charm and reason for its being, so far as it relates to the two persons concerned.

"The enjoyment of the home, with children, and the training of them, are, of course, among the most important duties and pleasures of married life; and it certainly does not detract from the power of a woman to make a good companion or to teach and train her children up to high ideals that she should have the advantage of the higher education.

Pay of Women Teachers.

"In the profession of teaching women already have the advantage over men in point of numbers. It is true that they do not receive the same compensation as men. I do not know how this can be remedied.

"I presume that the salaries are affected by the same law as that which controls prices in other markets, to wit, the law of supply and demand, and as there are more female teachers than male teachers, and as the common opinion is in many institutions that there ought to be some men teachers, the men receive higher salaries.

"I do not think we can estimate the enormous advantage that the present generation has enjoyed and that future generations are to profit by in the increasingly sound and thorough education of mothers of families."

"Mr. Taft dwelt on the mental pleasure and capacity for enjoyment of reading higher education gives. He spoke also of the benefits to women from associations of college life.

He warned against discontent with the surroundings of home to which a college girl goes back.

SHOT BY MISTAKE

Man Killed by Neighbor's Boy While Trying to Get into House.

Middletown, N. Y., June 3.—Elmer Frost, fifty-five years old, a well known resident of Montgomery, Orange county, was shot and killed at the home of C. W. Teed, one mile from the village. The members of the Teed family heard some one apparently trying to get into the house, and Mr. Teed and his thirteen-year-old son went out a back door. The boy took along his 22-caliber bird rifle. They walked around the house. Seeing a man on the front porch trying the door, Mr. Teed asked the man what he wanted. The intruder did not answer, and in his excitement the boy fired his rifle, intending to scare the man.

The stranger fell off the stoop dead. The bullet had struck him in the forehead, killing him instantly.

Several attempts have been made to enter the Teed residence recently and the boy was greatly excited when he fired the shot.

"JACKPOT" TO BEAT BILL

Illinois Fishermen Raised $3500 to Influence Legislation.

Springfield, Ill., June 3.—Investigation of the alleged bribery of legislators to vote for William Lorimer for senator was lost sight of by the Sangamon county grand jury, which devoted its time to hearing witnesses in regard to the killing of a bill to license fishermen.

State's Attorney Burke said he had partly completed a chain of evidence to show that upwards of $3500 was paid by various fish dealers to have the bill defeated in committee. He said that the legislator who collected the money failed to turn it to the holder of the alleged "jackpot," that was, it is said, divided among various representatives and senators.

KAISER'S INCOME TO BE INCREASED

Will Be Allowed $5,000,000 For Expenditures.

Berlin, June 3.—The civil list of the emperor, as king of Prussia, is soon to be increased, probably to about $5,000,000. This was agreed upon by the leaders of the Conservative, National-Liberal and Radical parties of the Prussian parliament. A bill embodying the necessary legislation will be introduced by the government shortly.

Emperor William, who receives nothing from the empire, has experienced difficulty during recent years in meeting the demands on his allowances from the Prussian kingdom. These allowances amount at present to $3,925,000, an increase of $875,000 having been made in 1889.

The restoration or repairs upon his majesty's numerous castles are said to be in part responsible for the royal need. But beyond these expenditures the emperor is a generous supporter of the opera and of the royal theaters of Berlin and Weisbaden Castle, having for some years made up an annual deficit in the houses totaling some $750,000.

COFFIN AFIRE AT FUNERAL

Quick Arrival of Firemen Prevents Cremation of Corpse.

Phoenixville, Pa., June 3.—Shortly before the funeral procession was to start from the house the candles burning about the coffin of John M. Maher, who died here on Monday, ignited the canopy over the casket and only the timely arrival of the firemen and the efforts of some of the mourners saved the corpse from cremation.

The Maher home is directly in the rear of the fire station and the firemen reached the house immediately and with hand fire extinguishers drowned the flames. They carried the casket, which was damaged by the flames, into the yard, and from there it was moved to the hearse.

After a delay of nearly an hour the funeral cortege moved to St. Ann's Catholic church, where services were held. The family are prostrated from the excitement attending the fire.

King George Has Talk With Peary.

London, June 3.—Commander Robert E. Peary was presented to King George at Marlborough house. He remained a half hour telling his majesty something of his own polar achievements and discussing with him the prospects of Captain Scott's Antarctic expedition.

Kindness Wins Man $10,000.

Washington, Pa., June 3.—George White, a farmer of Rea, has just been informed that Patrick Sullivan has left him $10,000. White fifteen years ago befriended a peddler whose name was Patrick Sullivan. He had often treated him to meals or lodging.

Newspaper Office Is Wrecked.

Lead, S. D., June 3.—A mob broke into the office of the Black Hills Daily Register of this city, and with sledge hammers destroyed the presses and a linotype machine. The attack is attributed to labor troubles. No arrests were made.

Baby Born on Train.

Tamagua, Pa., June 3.—While en route from New York to Middletown on a Jersey Central passenger train, Mrs. William J. Edwards gave birth to a son as the train reached this city.

FLIES TO FRANCE, BACK TO ENGLAND

Aviator Crossed and Recrossed Channel Without Stop.

TAKES LAURELS FROM FRENCH

Captain Rolls Accomplishes Unprecedented Feat and Makes New Record For Over-Water Flight.

Dover, England, June 3. — Captain Charles Stuart Rolls, the English aviator, flew from here to Sangatte, France, and returned without stopping across the English channel.

This is an unprecedented feat. Louis Bleriot and Count De Lesseps crossed the channel from France to England, but never before has a continuous flight between England and France and return been made.

Rolls reached the French coast in splendid time. He circled twice over Sangatte cliffs, near Calais, and without stopping his engine turned his aeroplane back to the British shore.

The distance across the channel is twenty-one miles, so Captain Rolls accomplished an over-water flight of forty-two miles, making a new record for this particularly dangerous course.

The weather was perfect. The progress of the aviator was watched with the aid of glasses until he was within two miles of the French coast, when the aeroplane vanished from view.

After circling the cliffs of Sangatte, Rolls headed straight to sea and made the return at a rapid pace.

Three torpedo boats which had been strung across the channel in anticipation of the flight started simultaneously with the bird-man when he set out for France, but though the boats were driven at full speed they were soon overhauled and passed by the aviator.

The Englishman's aeroplane is a Wright machine, built in France, with an American Wright engine. The plane has two seats, giving accommodation for a passenger.

By making the return trip he wins the Rouet prize of £2500.

For two weeks or so Rolls has been preparing for the double channel flight and the inhabitants of the French shore have been anxiously awaiting the trial.

Thousands of the 60,000 people of Calais went to the surrounding points, the fact that an Englishman was at last going to attempt the feat twice performed by Frenchmen attracting wide attention.

When Rolls left Dover he circled around once after his machine left the earth, then darted straight out to sea at express train speed. The weather was very clear and his progress was visible until he had arrived within two miles of the French coast.

The biplane worked perfectly and was under the absolute control of the aviator at all times. Crowds witnessed the flight from the French cliffs and found it the most successful, spectacularly, of any yet made.

T. R. TO HEAD PEACE BOARD

House Committee Takes Favorable Action to Establish Commission.

Washington, June 3.—Former President Roosevelt is expected to head a peace committee provided for in a resolution which was favorably acted on by the house committee on foreign affairs.

President Taft has indicated, it is said, that he would appoint his predecessor as chairman of the commission, in event it was created by congress.

The committee would be directed to visit the capitals in all foreign countries, in the interest of securing the limitation of armament of nations and of preserving international peace.

Both houses of congress are expected to act favorably upon the resolution.

SMUGGLING GAME COSTLY

Minneapolis Banker Fined $5000 in Court at Trenton.

Trenton, N. J., June 3.—Hiram B. Lyon, a banker of Minneapolis, who fell into the hands of customs officers, was fined $5000 by Judge Reilistab in the United States district court. He pleaded non vult to a criminal information charging him with attempting to smuggle two pearl necklaces into the country without the payment of duty, which, according to the customs officials, would have amounted to $2400.

Jockey Killed at Gravesend.

Gravesend, N. Y., June 3.—Jockey Fred Langan was killed and Jockey Butwell badly injured in a spill in the last race here. The accident occurred at the home stretch. Warwick went down in a heap and Stalwart Lad fell over him. Before Davis, on Muff, could see the mix up his mount fell. Davis' mount fell on top of the unconscious Langan. He was picked up alive, but died after being carried to the jockeys' room. Butwell was kicked and had his nose broken and his ear nearly torn off.

CREATING A SENSATION ALL OVER THE COUNTRY

Root Juice Is Making Many Remarkable Cures

Quite a sensation is being created in many cities of the country by the remarkable Root Juice discovery. The great remedy is making many remarkable cures in every direction. Many local testimonials were published in this paper until it became useless as so many people of this city were cured by it. It has certainly proved a wonderful remedy for the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. Many who suffered for years with indigestion, rheumatism and kidney complaints, after taking a few bottles of the wonderful health-giving Juice have been restored to perfect health. Eat Ziegler's bread

Not one of the numerous spring vegetables is more toothsome than asparagus, a small bed of which will be sufficient to furnish all a family will want and some to spare. In starting a bed small plants may be used or portions of the roots of an old bed secured before the sprouts start. The plants should be set to a depth of about eight inches in soil made mellow and enriched with a good supply of well rotted stable manure. Asparagus is a gross feeder, and the ground can hardly be made too rich. The bed should be well watered, and if the rainfall is not enough it should be irrigated during the growing season.

Statistics which have been compiled by the department of agriculture at Washington contain some interesting figures relative to exports of farm products during the past sixty years. They show that these exports, consisting chiefly of cotton, grain and grain products and packing house products, have increased in value from an average of $150,000,000 a year in the five year period from 1851 to 1855 to an average of $875,000,000 a year in the period 1901 to 1905, while in two subsequent years, 1907 and 1908, they have exceeded in value the above average, totaling $1,000,000,000. The statistics show that the increase in the volume and value of agricultural exports has far outstripped the increase in the country's population.

SETTING THE OLD TURKEY HEN

About the 1st of February the big turkey toms get sporty, flash their red cravats, puff out their big bay winders, strike an aldermanic strut, and with a sweep of their brazen wings and an emphatic shake of the noodle on their noses they go to courtin'.

Then's the time for you to get busy making nests in quiet cozy corners, for your turkey hens are due to lay.

But don't forget those trilling beauties are from wild ancestry and love best a hidden nest and are often so adroit at hiding away in tangled thickets or brush heap that mother thinks "Mr. Skunk got 'em" until on the twenty-sixth or twenty-eighth day Mrs. Turkey proudly struts forth with a big bunch of pretty poults.

An anchored sugar barrel, covered with tar paper, set in a secluded corner and covered with brush or weeds in such manner as to lose its identity, will often fool Mrs. Turkey into believing she has fooled you, and she will quickly settle down on the soft straw and china eggs inside and lay her clutch, which is usually twenty-five eggs. If removed as they are laid.

Face the nest south, keep the eggs from getting chilled and date them so you eat the oldest first.

Fifteen eggs are enough for setting, as nearly all hatch, and the quick growing poults must be well covered.

THE OLD OAKEN BARREL.

Keep grit and feed near the nest and provide a big pan of water, as a broody turkey hen likes to stand in water to cool her hot feet when she drinks.

When the eggs begin to hatch don't get nervous lest broken shells close over and smother the poults, for a little turk, unlike a chicken, breaks a hole in the shell and jumps through. And don't remove them from the nest until they are dry, spry and strong, for despite her size, Mrs. Turkey seldom tramples her young.

DON'TS.

Don't keep your cock pheasant with the chickens. He will lick them like the dickens.

Don't think swamp grass is worthless. It's the best bedding for water-fowl.

Don't buy grit by the pound when the best sells for $7 a ton, and be sure all moidy feed to shun.

PLANNED BY A WIDOW

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

The widow Hunnewell had been a widow for four years, and she hadn't found much in life for her. She had had to split her own wood, build her own fires and milk her own cow. Every day she had missed Mr. Hunnewell, and when night came and the wind moaned and the rain fell and the shingles blew off the roof she wept and wished it were all over.

At length Professor Doty arrived in the village. Not only that, but he arrived next door. He was a professor of natural history in a college, and he came to the village for his vacation. He was a man of sixty, tall and reserved and dignified. He gave every one a feeling of awe. Mr. Hunnewell, on the contrary, had been short and fat and jolly, and people used to poke him in the ribs and joke with him. It was probably the contrast that caused the widow to fall in love at first sight.

She leaned over the fence and introduced herself, and he approached and talked to her. He had found a tree load hidden in the bark of a locust tree, and he was glad to talk to some one about his find.

While the professor lectured the widow fell deeper in love and kept exclaiming: "Do tell!" and "Oh, my soul!" She was an interested listener. She said she'd give anything to learn all about toads and bugs and grasshoppers and clams, and the professor was a bit flattered. If the woman next door had been a nice, loving woman she would have invited the widow over to make further acquaintance, but she was a different person. She said that widows had too much rope as it was and that Mrs. Hunnewell was always out of tea and coffee when a neighbor wanted to borrow. And the professor wasn't to be caught sight of so often either.

However, when Providence gets its machinery once started there are generally results. One night when the wind didn't moan and the shingles didn't rattle, but when it was moonlight and calm instead, the widow was awakened from her sleep by a bad dream. She thought herself surrounded by potato bugs and fighting for her life. The dream made such an impression that she got out of bed and looked out of the window. There was the explanation before her eyes. The professor had climbed the fence and was in her yard and down on hands and knees in the grass. He had on so few clothes that it was easy to guess he had risen from his bed to look for crickets. Not a word did the widow say. She just got into bed and did some thinking. That thinking resulted in her sending for the village constable next day and saying to him:

"Mr. Richards, if a widow living all alone should have reason to believe that her house was about to be broken into, what should she do?"

"You mean if she saw a man dodging around in the yard?"

"Yes."

"Well, she might scream."

"Yes."

"Or she might throw something out of the window at him."

"Yes."

"Or she might take her life and her broomstick in hand and rush out and crack his skull."

"I see."

"But if I was that woman I'd borrow a shotgun, load it with salt and fire on him from a window."

"And what would the salt do?"

"Keep him in bed for about a week. If there is anybody spooking around your house o' nights I've got the gun and the salt, and you can protect yourself. The law will be on your side. Aim at his legs and let 'er go."

The widow took a couple of hours to think it over and then sent for the gun. She was taught how to fire it, and when the sun went down that evening she felt that events were going to happen before morning. What Professor Doty was looking for the night before was crickets. Their songs had floated into his open window at midnight and awoke him. He had climbed the fence into the next yard without a thought of trespass. He had got down on hands and knees and pawed around, but the crickets had evaded him. He would try again.

If there had been any bells in the town they would have been striking 11 o'clock when the waiting, watching widow heard some one softly drop from the fence, then come into sight crawling over the grass. She saw him grab with this hand and the other and heard him chuckle. Then she pointed the gun out of the window and shut her eyes and fired. There was a whoop and a yell, and she rattled downstairs to find the professor lying on the grass. He had been salted. Nevermore would he be fresh again. Nevermore would he want any salt on his potatoes.

Of course the plan was to rush him into the house, call a doctor and keep him around for a week as an invalid. There would be romance in the salt and gratitude for the soups prepared for him, and those things might lead on and on. They didn't, however. The professor cussed; he swore; he wrigled; he said that any woman who would shoot a barrel of salt into an innocent man ought to be hanged, and as he made his way to the fence he called back:

"And my wife is coming here in the morning to stay for two weeks. Wo man, keep your old crickets and be hanged to you!"

JUDGING A GOOD HORSE

According to David Buffum, an expert breeder of horses, the first thing to learn in the science of horsemanship is the fine points of a good horse. In Farm and Fireside he says that the most important part of a horse and the first thing to examine is the horse's feet and legs, for if he is deficient in this respect no superiority in other points and no qualities in breeding or disposition can offset it. The best chair or table in the world is useless if it has only three or two legs.

For these points the feet of the horse should be symmetrical, neither too deep nor too flat, but if failing in either respect they had better be too deep than too flat. It may often happen that on soft and level country roads a flat foot may not occasion much trouble, but it is bad on hard roads or in cities and is in all cases a defect in conformation.

The limbs should be clean—that is, free from fleshiness—but have plenty of bone and substance. The fore legs should be relatively short from the fetlock joint up to the knee and long from the knee up to the horse's body. This is a very important point, as no horse was ever good for much on the road whose knees were too high up.

The hind legs should be flat as well as clean. This excessive cleanliness goes with highly bred horses and is to be insisted on in all horses that properly belong in that class, such as thoroughbreds, trotters, hackneys, etc. In colder blooded horses we should demand at least a reasonable approach to it. The gambrel joint should be strong and well developed, near slender or "dandified," and it is also desirable to have it relatively near the ground, though this is not as important as the position of the fore knee.

The horse should stand square on his legs with his feet well under him, and his hoofs should be straight fore and aft, neither toeing in nor toeing out.

For the body of the horse the back should be short.

The hind quarters should be well developed, with the hip joints well forward. The rump should not be straight, but rather straight than drooping—that is, the line from the top of the hips to the root of the tail should be only moderately oblique.

The shoulders should be slanting, not upright, and the withers reasonably high. This conformation makes a strong as well as elegant shoulder.

The body should be nicely rounded, neither gaunt nor "potbellied," and should be ribbed well up toward the hips.

The chest should be deep rather than wide, giving large lung capacity.

The neck should be free from undue fleshiness. It may be either long or short, as far as utility is concerned, the long, of course, being much more elegant and therefore to be preferred on well bred horses. In either case it should be bent a little just before the point where it joins the head, so as to give the conformation that we call "clean cut in the throatle," a structure that gives the breathing apparatus free play.

The head in well bred horses should be small and almost as clean and bony as the limbs. The face line viewed from the side should be straight, not aquiline. The forehead should be flat between the eyes. The eyes should be of medium size, set well apart from each other and not too near the top of the head, and the head when viewed from the front should slant in a little from the eyes upward. The ears should be fine, thin and pointed and of medium length, and they should be so set on that when pointed forward they are parallel, not slanting apart.

These points of equine perfection are absolute, and therefore they apply to all kinds of horses. In judging horses of different types the difference must be in the application, not in the standard itself, for a good horse must be homogeneous in his makeup, every part in harmony with other parts, and every part must have such modification and proportion as conduces to that end.
